

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a fastener assembly, comprising a nut configured to retain a cap, a washer having a bearing surface, the nut and the washer being rotatable relative to each other about a common axis, the nut
5 having an annular surface axially opposed to the bearing surface, and the annular surface and the bearing surface are undulating in shape.